'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Football fans will follow with interest today the progress of the University of California football team when it goes up against the Washington Cougars.

* * * *

Tomorrow the American Legion football team will play its second game of the series here. A large following has been earned by the Legion players.

* * * *

There is one member of the local team who is trailed by hard luck. Every game he plays, he is either knocked out, or is injured.

* * * *

In one game he broke his nose, during the First play.

* * * *

Yet he still insists that football is a wonderful game, and that he wouldn't play anything else.

* * * *

Now is the season of the year when one starts paying back one's social calls that one should have made during the spring time.

* * * *

You're reminded of this fact on your Sunday off, when the rain is raining and the stove is burning and your book is interesting.

* * * *

This all reminds us of a friend of ours. He had exactly seven social calls to make. He became desperate and made them all in one day.

* * * *

First he spent several hours at the Joneses, and then went to the Smiths for luncheon. After luncheon he went to the Browns and spent a few hours. From there he went to the Johnsons where he stayed for tea. Thence he betook himself to the Sosandsos for dinner. Immediately after dinner he pleaded an important engagement and went to another house, where he stayed until nine o'clock. At that hour he said he had to leave, pleading he had to get up early in the morning. At 9:30 he was at the last house on his route, where he played bridge until midnight.

* * * *

That's what we call a record breaker.

* * * *

Our comment the other evening about a person referring to a linotype as a typewriter, brought added information from one of the operators.

A woman stood for sometime at the window, watching him set type.

* * * *

When he arose and dropped a pig of metal into the pot, the woman exclaimed: "My isn't it wonderful how those machines cut up that metal into type?"

WORK STARTS ON PROJECT HERE

CHANNEL FOR BARGES IS DREDGED

The Daniels contracting company, of San Francisco, yesterday morning started first actual work on the construction of a sea wall on the Berkeley Waterfront company's property on the Richmond waterfront.

A huge dredger, the "Delta No. 1," owned by the company, started to dredge a small channel near the Ford plant. This channel will be used by the large rock barges, will be brought here from McNear's point. The rock will be used for the wall.

The Daniel's quarry at the point will supply the rock for the work. Barges will be used to transport the material to the scene of the project.

A crew of 20 men is employed on the job at the present time, it was learned yesterday.

Officials of the Berkeley Waterfront company yesterday refused to comment upon the start of the ship channel, which is to be dredged.

As far as it can be learned, the sea wall will be more than two miles in length and will follow the proposed channel.

Although there has been no official confirmation, it is understood here that the land at the waterfront is being prepared for the location of a huge Northern Pacific rail terminal, which will be located in Richmond.

Dictator For Cuba Is Seen

HAVANA, Cuba., Oct. 3.—UP—President Gerardo Machado went before a special session of congress this evening and made formal request for suspension of certain constitutional guarantees to meet the present distrubed political situation.

Three houses were torn from their foundations and swept down Ketchikan creek Thursday, and a bridge was washed away. Mony basements were flooded, and residents of a store were forced to leave when pilings supporting the buildings were washed away.

POLICEMAN IS INDICTED

OAKLAND, Oct. 3.—Two indictments, one charging attempted extortion and the other soliciting of bribes were returned by the Alameda county grand jury late today against Police Sergeant Fred Tatum of Oakland.

An investigation into charges that two other Oakland policemen hijacked a liquor supply, was also started by the jury.

The indictments against Sergeant Tatum were returned in the court of Superior Judge Fred Wood. Bail was fixed at $3000 cash by the court

Tatum has been held in the county jail since Wednesday, when he was ambushed by detectives, who alleged they saw him receive $30 from a bootlegger. The money, all in marked bills, was later found in Tatum's home, under his pillow, detectives say.

Police Chief Drew was the first witness called. He told the investigators that George Thompson, once convicted of bootlegging complained to him that the sergeant was hounding his deliveryman for hush money.

Richard Smart, the alleged deliveryman, who is said to have given the money to Tatum, was then called. He said that Tatum once stopped him and threatened him with arrest if he did not pay him some money. Later, he said, Tatum stopped him and demanded that he pay him $50 down and $25 a month for protection.

Later, Smart said, he called the sergeant from the district attorney's office, with Chief Drew listening in, and arranged to meet Tatum with the money.

County Detective Oscar Jahnsen then testified he saw Smart hand the money over to Tatum and then, through a window, saw the sergeant hide the bills under a pillow.

ACCIDENT IS VERDICT OF JURY

"Accidental death" was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury, at an inquest into the death of Ernest W. Heck of San Leandor last night. No blame was fixed.

The jury was out only a few minutes before the verdict was rendered. Coroner Aubrey Wilson conducted the inquest, which was held in the Justice of the Peace courtrooms.

Heck was killed instantly when his automobile collided with a street car operated by C. E. Angell, veteran Key System motorman, at Twenty-third street and Nevin avenue at midnight Sept. 27.

Angell, in his version of the accident, declared he had sounded his gong almost continuously before the accident occurred. This statement was confirmed by W. V. Keltz and C. B. Overman, witnesses of the fatal crash.

According to Angell, he first noticed the automobile, when it was on the east side [illegible] street. The car then, according to Angell, veered onto the tracks, and despite warnings sounded by the operator, crashed head on into the street car.

Angell said he applied his emergency brakes, but the machine was too close to the streetcar to avoid hitting it.

Dr. Hall Vestal, who examined Heck within a few minutes after the crash, said the deceased sustained a crushed front temple, broken nose, compound fractures of the upper and lower jaw bones and fractured both collar bones.

Patrolman M. H. Salisbury and George Riefschneider, who investigated the crash, related technical details of the accident such as the position of the machine, streetcar, etc.

NEW APE BOY MAP IS HOAX

RIVERSIDE, Act. 3—UP—When a careful search failed to reveal the bodies of three young victims of Gordon Stewart Northcott on his Wineville chicken ranch today, authorities decided the "final, true' map he gave them just before going to the gallows was another hoax.

Officers dug in a hallow southeast of the ranch, using a map traced by Albert Kelley, of the district attorney's staff. The original is enroute here by mail and unless it differs essentially from Kelley's tracing no further search will be made.

Just before his execution at San Quetin prison Thursday, Northcott volunteered the map, which he said would disclose the graves of Lewis and Nelson Winslow and Walter Collins, young boys he was convicted of misusing and killing.

Huge Refrigeration Plant To Be Built At Inner Harbor Site

Plans for the location of a million dollar refrigeration plant, on the Richmond inner harbor were revealed yesterday.

The plant will employ several hundred men, it was intimated last night.

A plot of ground near the Filice and Perrelli cannery on the Richmond inner harbor, will be the site for the new and largest industry.

Negotiations for the location of the huge plant here has been under way for the past several months.

One factor that has induced the owners of the plant to build here is the fact that Richmond has been made a port of call, giving shippers the same rates here as those of other ports on the San Francisco bay.

Store Fruits

The plant would take care of the Filice and Perrelli business, storing fruits and vegetables for that concern.

And with the erection of the plant, Richmond would then be the shipping point for valley fruits and vegetables.

Fruits Here

—Carloads of fruits and other perishables would be brought here from the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys, instead of making the long freight haul to Oakland and San Francisco.

Here the articles would be stored and then packed in ships and refrigerator cars, to be sent to eastern United States points, and to Europe and the Orient.

Such a plant here would attract [illegible] of the fruit shipping business.

To All Harbor

This would mean that Richmond's record for shipments over the inner harbor wharves would steadily mount, until Richmond would no longer be the "Fourth Port of the Pacific." It would rank with San Francisco and other cities.

It was stated yesterday that plans and specifications for the plant have already been drawn up. The names of the builders were withheld.

City Jubilant

It is understood that the Filice and Perrelli cannery officials were instrumental in having the plant locate here.

Business and civic leaders were jubilant yesterday on receipt of the news.

Huge developments on the water front are expected as a result of the location of the new plant, the Ford Motor factory and the Filice and Perrelli cannery on the harbor.

SEVEN HELD IN BIG RAID

OAKLAND, Oct. 3.—As a result of a raid by police and county authorities upon a five-day orgy in which a score of young men and girls are alleged to have participated, three men are being held in the city prison and four girls ranging in age from 15 to 18 years are being held at the juvenile detention home.

The raid was made upon a house at 4818 Lawton avenue. A scene of abandon was discovered by the raiding party, police say.

The officers stayed at the house until two o'clock, and arrested several other men and girls who came to the house during that time. The party was reported to have included seventeen persons A small quantity of liquor was discovered, it was reported.

According to neighbors, the party has been almost continuous since Sunday. Sounds of singing, screaming, and quarreling could be heard issuing from the house opposite Emerson grammar school. Couples danced upon the sidewalks and lawn outside.

The men are to be charged with contributing to the delinquency of minors. The names of the girls are being withheld. Two are sisters. One is claimed to be 15, the other 17. The other two girls are 16 and 18 years of age respectively.

The raid was lead by Probation Officer O'lie Snedigar, Inspector Oscar Jahnsen and Harry Piper of the district attorney's office. Sergeant A. J. Howe of the Northern station, and J. H. Baker and L. C. Smith of the police morals squad.

40 Patients Saved In Hospital Fire

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. —UP— Forty bed-ridden patients were hurriedly moved to safety today by nurses, physicians and firemen, while fire in an adjoining building was crackling windows and scorching bricks of ehe Rogers' Park hospital.

A pile of rubbish burning under the rear porches of the three story apartment building adjoining the hospital started the blaze. It swept up the porches and had burst through to the roof when discovered.

Several of the patients became almost hysterical with fear as they lay helpless in bed, but all were removed in perfect safety.

LOS ANGELES BANK ROBBED

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—UP—Two bandits who said they were from Chicago waited inside the Grenshaw Boulevard branch of the Bank of Italy today, bound six employes as they arrived at work and then escaped with $7,000 in currency.

When E. A. Seeley, manager of the branch, opened the bank he was confronted by the two intruders, who rose up from behind a counter, "don't squawk, mister" one of them warned. "We're from Chicago and we'll blast you if you do."

Seeley was escorted to a back room, bound and gagged and forced to sit on the floor. Five other employes received similar treatment when they arrived in rapid succession. Seeley was forced to open the vault, after which the bandits helped themselves to the currency, placed the six employes in the unlocked vault and departed. Miss Laura Jacobson, a clerk, had been bound with her hands tied in front so that she might release herself and the others.

THE WEATHER

Fair and mild with fog today; Sunday fair.

SAINTS TO MEET GRAY FOG SUNDAY

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Oct. 3.—The Galloping Gaels face their first severe test of the season when they tangle with the Gray Fog of St. Ignatius at Kezar this Sunday.

Scarcely yet recovered from the narrow escape he met at the hands of the Ignatius last year, Slip Madigan has been driving the boys hard for the coming encounter. He realizes that a team composed entirely of veterans and with men of the type of Kleckner, Warford, Barreiles is a big danger in his march to victory.

With the California game just a few days away, Madigan cannot afford to lose any of his veterans by injury, so there is no wonder that the Jimmy Needles outfit has him bothered. The Ignatians were very impressive in their tilt with the Marines, winning the bay cities' first night game 26-0.

Madigan's football factory has evolved a double shift this year that was very impressive in the encounter with the Army. The Gael first shift went to work on the Jarheads and had 20 points within 18 minutes. Then the second shift, or B team was sent in. The Beasley, Baird, Fletcher and Flores combination did not look so flashy as the Blue Ghosts, Stennett, Boyle, Toscani and Barrett, but they shoved over two touchdowns, with a pitiful assortment of about five plays.

The wildest St. Mary's fan knows that St. Ignatius can't be beaten on five or six plays. Those in the know expect him to open up to meet the vicious attack of aerial plays with which Jimmy Needles' team is always loaded.

In his debut as a quarter last Sunday Vin Boyle made the fans forget Simas though Boyle still has a long way to go before he masters Simas' interfering game. Bud Toscani, always flashy, has developed a great deal since last season. His steps are trickier, his speed greater. Bob Barrett at full came through with more than five yards per play against the Army. The Blue Ghosts are in fine shape.

Fans are expecting an interesting punting and passing duel between Stud Stennett and Bob Klecker, both triple threat men on Sunday's program.

The Saint line will meet rough competition against the Ignatians, who are much bigger and faster than the Army. Ebding and McNally who teamed together blocking kicks last week will have harder job against the [illegible] men.

A bumper crowd is expected as it is rumored that the Gray Fog are confident of taking the Gaels, and many of their followers will be there to see them try to do it.

Coast Grid Teams Face Tests Today

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct 3—UP — Test games in which major football teams of the Pacific Coast have run up high scores against small colleges had served their purpose tonight and five conference teams were prepared to meet strong competition Saturday.

The first two are conference contests that will have an important part in determining eventual winner of the title. In the third conference game of teh day, University of Washington is a heavy favorite., University of Montana at Seattle.

Observers believe either Washington State or California will be fortunate to score more than two touchdowns The Cougars have brought from the Northwest with them a sensational backfie'd player. Elmer Schwartz, who ranks second among players of the coast in total points scored. The top position is held by Johnny Kitzmiller of Oregon

The Golden Bears defeated Washington State last year. 14 to 0 Both teams are stronger this year.

University of Southern California has been regarded as almost a unanimous choice over Oregon State by fans in this state But today B'll Warner, brother of Coach Glenn Warner of Stanford, said "if Oregon State doesn't go to pieces it will put up a wha'e of a batt'e and will be the surprise team of the coast." The Trojans should win by at least one touchdown.

Defeated by Santa Clara the last two times they met, Stanford is not likely to be overconfident It has the power to win by at least 12 points. Santa Clara was in a hard battle with California a week ago, losing 19 to 7.

Washington recalls we'l the Montana team it did not fear a year ago and got a 6 to 6 tie

RICHMOND NET PLAYERS OUT OF MEET

Phillip Carlin and James Hurley, two of Richmond's leading contenders in the Pacific Coast championship tennis tourney at Berkeley, were eliminated from the tournament yesterday after staging the greatest competition of their youthful careers on the court.

Phillip Carlin defeated Jack Reid yesterday in the quarter finals by a score of 6-3, 6-2. He then entered the semi-finals, and lost to Jack Lynch by a score of 5-7, 6-4, 6-1 after a terrific batt'e. Carlin's showing was outstanding in yesterday's quarter and semi-finals in spite of the fact that he lost the latter match. His opponent yesterday in the semi-finals is second highest ranking player in boys' national tennis competition.

James Hurley yesterday lost to Charles Hunt in the junior quarter final singles 6-3, 6-2. He staged a strong fight against Hunt, but he could not quite cope successfully with the experience of the San Francisco athlete.

With the elimination of Hurley and Carlin from tournament competition yesterday, the only Richmond [illegible] left in the meet are Sylvia Seawright and Helen Dunning, scheduled to compete today in the girls' doubles finals.

County Tennis Singles Title At Stake Today

The singles title of the Contra Costa county open tennis tournament of 1930 will be at stake this afternoon when Wallace Bates and Stanley Almquist meet in the finals on the Richmond city hall courts.

The match is scheduled to be played at two o'clock this afternoon.

The doubles finals will be played off tomorrow between the team of Almquist and Walter Honsberger and that of Blanchard and Catton. The match will be held on the city hall courts at 10:30 tomorrow morning.

Both matches have attracted wide attention in eastbay tennis circles in spite of the fact that the Pacific coast championship tournament is now in progress, and a large gallery is expected to be present at both today's and tomorrow's matches for the Contra Costa tennis titles.

Wallace Bates is seeded player number two in the contest, while Almquist is seeded number three. Both these players have crashed through exceedingly stiff opposition this year to reach the finals.

Almquist and Honsberger will have a hard battle on their hands tomorrow when they meet Blanchard and Catton, who rank high in doubles competition in this part of the state. Honsberger is a polished individual player, being one of the outstanding singles athletes in California. He presented a fine but losing fight to Helen Wills Moody, last weekend in the Pacific coast tournament at Berkeley.

LEGION ELEVEN WILL PLAY CONTEST

One of the strongest football squads ever seen in Richmond, will be persented by Claude Samples, coach of the Richmond American Legion team, tomorrow, when the locals take on the Ashby Athletic club of Berkeley on the Richmond Union high school field.

The game will start at 2 p. m. and is expected to be one of the most hotly contested of the season.

Samples is hoping to run up a high score tomorrow afternoon, and with this end in mind, called an additional practice for last night.

The team has a number of new plays, and Samples believes that the ragged playing so much in evidence last Sunday, will be alleviated tomorrow.

The Richmond squad got off to a good start in its opening game last week and defeated the Acorn Athletic club of Oakland by a 6 to 0 score.

Although the local team played almost the entire game in its opponent's territory, fumbles and ragged playing cost the Legionnaires several scores.

Samples believes he has overcome this fault of the team thru heavy drilling in fundamentals the past week, and is anticipating putting a finished squad of gridmen on the field tomorrow.

According to his tentative lineup for the game, announced last night, Cooper and Pitts will start at ends; Adcock and Burton tackles; Peters and Lusk, guards; Myers, center; Youngs, quarter; Paillo and MacA'lister, halves and MacAllister, halves and Freeman, full.

Bud Clark, last week's honorary captain, will probably not start the game due to a broken nose, sustained last Sunday, but will undoubtedly see action during the fray.

Samples has a large squad of reserves ready for the game, which includes Milne, F. Sheehy, MacAllister and Jester, ends; Frazier, B. Irwin, M. Irwin and Neckel, guards, Carson and S. Sheehy, tackles; Jester, Hurley, Lemkuhl and Cormell, halves, and Clark, full.

Samples is depending considerable upon his reserve squad, figuring that fresh players, sent in regularly will outplay a tired team. All members of the squad who have been attending practices regularly will see action tomorrow, Samples said.

Dan "Hap" Bradley, manager of the Richmond aggregation, has lined up several games for the team, and has several more in view he said last night.

A week from tomorrow the Legionnaires will tangle with the City of Paris team from San Francisco, and the following Sunday will journey to Antioch to play that city's squad.

November 2 the local boys will journey to Santa Rosa to take on the Bone Crushers.

Considerable confusion was noted last week, when patrons could not get into the field.

To avoid this tomorrow, Bradley announced that the only gate to be open will be the one at the northeast corner of the field.

Richmond Elks Baseball Team Wins Contest

The Richmond Elks baseball team seems to thrive on night baseball, judging from the results of last night's game.

The local Bills walked over the Alameda team at the Oakland oCast league park by a score of 14 to 11.

Peacock started on the mound for the locals. At the fifth inning the Richmond team was leading by a 11 to 0 score. Peacock eased up and the Oakland team walloped him for 10 runs, before Dutch Koegler could get warmed up and stop the slaughter.

The locals scored five in the third, six in the fourth, four in the sixth, one in the seventh and another in the eighth. Oakland scored its last run in the sixth.

The game was witnessed by a crowd of more than 2500.

The line score:

	R.	H.	E.
Oakland	11	11	5
Richmond	17	12	5

Batteries—Schnal and McElroy: Peacock, Koegler and Bartoli, Jensen.

Modern Woodmen Nine Will Play

Announcement of a baseball game to be played between the Berkeley and Richmond camps, Modern Woodmen of America, was made at a meeting of the local camp in the Redmen hall last night.

The game will be played Sunday at Hutchinson park in Oakland, according to the announcement.

During the meeting, routine business was transacted.

HIGH GRIDDERS PLAY U. C. FROSH

The Richmond Union high school gridders will have a large task ahead of them when they go on the field this morning against the University of California Frosh second and third strings.

The Richmond boys will be meeting extra strong competition in the college boys today, and they will have to show their best football tactics if they expect to play the U. C. squad on an equal footing.

The locals have been toiling industriously under Coach Frank Ribbel in an attempt to rise from the rut into which they seem to have fallen during the last few weeks, and this extra effort may prove effective today.

The tentative starting lineup of the Richmond squad today is as follows: Drexell and Jullerat, ends; Westman and Ball, tackles; Hoeffer and Baxter, guards; Hall, center; Masek and Scarsella, halfbacks, and Rosano, fullback.

The game will be played at the University of California this morning, at 10:30 o'clock

CARDINALS ARE SURE OF ONE VICTORY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Oct. 3.—UP—New hopes dawned for the St. Louis Cardinals as they returned home today to make preparations to stem the tide of the onrushing Philadelphia Athletics when the world series is resumed here tomorrow.

One thing in the Cardinals' favor is that they can't get any worse than they were in the first two games which they dropped to the defending world champions.

A bright side of the Cards' cause is that they faced almost insurmountable odds when they won the National league flag and in that great drive down the stretch proved that they will not quit under fire, even though it looks very much that way now to hear American league partisans tell it.

Familiar surroundings at Sportsmen's park, Bill Hallahan's pitching and some timely hitting in the pinches may bring the Cards to life in the third game and one victory for the National league champions is quite likely to change them once more into the hustling, hard-fighting club which came up from fourth place in the last six weeks of the season to get into the world series.

A few long distance clouts and a good share of the breaks won the first game for the Athletics, and a well-pitched game gave them victory in the second game.

Connie Mack has used his two aces, Grove and Earnshaw, and has the Cards on the run, but its a bit premature to concede the world championship to the Athletics. They still have two games to win.

The failure of the Cards thus far has been almost solely due to their inability to hit in the pinches. They made costly misplays in the first game which helped the A's win, but the one big ball and chain on the National league champions is their woeful weakness at bat with runners on base.

Three of the big guns of the Cards, Douhit, Hafey and Bottomley have been silenced thus far in the series. Between they they have made only one hit.

Bottomley has hit only one ball out of the infield, and hasn't been on base in either game. Twice he has fanned, and most of the rest of the time he has been popping up.

The three runs scored by the Cards in the two games have resulted from a home run and two sacrifice flies. Not a single St. Louis player has driven home another runner with a base hit.

While Connie Mack has to gamble on one of his youngsters, Bill Shores or Leroy Mahaffey, or return to Grove, Gabby Street has his next two pitchers all set, Bill Hallahan for the third game and Jess Haines for the fourth.

Plans Made To Handle Traffic At Big Game

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 3.—Plans for providing highway traffic protection for the vast crowds expected to attend "big games" at Stanford university during the coming football season were announced today by Eugene W. Biscailuz, superintendent of the California Highway Patrol.

Plans of the patrol center primarily on the games between Stanford and University of Southern California on October 25, Stanford and Washington, November 8, and Stanford and Dartsmouth, November 29. Huge throngs are expected at all of these games.

Biscailuz explained the problem of handling traffic for these contests will be a particularly trying one inasmuch as the Peninsula highway is the only main artery running past the Stanford bowl.

Officers will be drawn into the area from all parts of the state on the day of the games and organized for the express purpose of untangling the traffic and keeping it moving.

Otto Langer, inspector in charge of the bureau of traffic will be in charge of the detail and is arranging to confer with Stanford officials on the best means of handling the situation.

Although a record - breaking crowd is expected at Berkeley on November 22 when the Stanford Cardinals meet their ancient rivals, the Golden Bears of the University of California, Biscailuz does not anticipate so much trouble in handling the traffic because there are so many more outlets for it from Berkeley.

BISHOP MURDER CASE OPENS AT FOX

That S. S. Van Dine's best seller "The Bishop Murder Case," is fully as exciting on the screen as it is in book form. It opens today at the Fox-California Theater.

This cleverly contrived tale of a madman who murders indiscriminately, leaving a black chess bishop and a sneering verse in "Mother Goose" rhyme beside each victim, has been effectively adapted to the screen by Lenore J. Coffee with the direction in the joint hands of Nick Grinde and David Burton.

The Richmond audiences will go into ecstasies of shivering and gasping as four of the characters are done away with while conjecture as to the identify of the mysterious "bishop" runs rampant. However, true to mystery - film form, the solution of the puzzle is not revealed until the last few feet of the picture.

A capable cast helps make this picture the splendid entertainment it is. Basil Rathbone as Philo Vance, detective, handles his role with a convincing manner; Leila Hyams, more attractive than ever, has the principal feminine role which she plays to perfection; Roland Young displays the same abilities which made him so popular in the "Unholy Night." Other fine performances are given by Alec. B Francis, George Marion, Zelda Sears and the large supporting cast.

"The Bishop Murder Case" is a sure bet for those who like suspense, surprise, originality and finished acting.

Two Captains For Galloping Gaels Named

SAINT MARY'S COLLEGE, Oct. 3.—Forty-five members of the St. Mary's football team met here yesterday and elected two captains to lead them through their strenuous 1930 football season.

Francis Frederick (Stud) Stennett, Ventura boy, and St. Mary's prospect for all-American halfback honors will lead for half the games. Harry Ebding, powerful varsity end, whose native town is Walla Walla, Wash., will lead the other half.

Though Madigan had proposed to have a captainless team for the season, appointing one for each game, as the result of a deadlock in the vote for the coveted position which was held last spring, the boys got together and settled on Ebding and Stennett.

Stennett, nationally recognized as one of the best kickers and passers in the game looked very impressive in the Gaels' first encounter last Sunday. Big things are expected from him this year. He will lead the Gaels in the following games: St. Ignatius, October 5; California, October 11; Gonzaga, October 26; Santa Clara, November 2.

Ebding, who was mentioned by many of the "estimators" as all-coast end on some of the mythical teams leads the Gaels in most of their games away from home; U. C. L. A. (night) October 17; Olympic Club, November 9; Fordham (at New York) November 15, and Oregon, November 27 (Thanksgiving Day).

MOTOR DEATHS IN THIS STATE LOWER

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 3.—At least 19 states of the Union have motor vehicle death rates based on gasoline consumption that are higher than California.

This was revealed today in a comparison of motor vehicle accidents of states prepared and released by the bureau of research, statistics and traffic safety of the Division of Motor Vehicles.

The rate for California is 1.81 deaths for every million gallons of gasoline consumed. Of the thirty-four states included in the bureau's study, California is fifteenth on the list. The bureau concludes that this puts California in a relatively favorable light inasmuch as the death rate is well below the general average of other states.

The study shows an average death rate of 1.99 for the thirty-four states included, North Dakota being the lowest with .80 and West Virginia being highest with 2.62. The figures are all based on motor vehicle fatalities and gasoline consumption for 1929. California motorists consumed approximately 1,241,000,000 gallons of gas for the year and there were 2244 deaths.

The bureau regards death rates based on gasoline consumption as the fairest basis for comparing fatalities between states inasmuch as a motor vehicle is exposed to accident hazard in direct proportion to the number of miles it is driven.

"It follows that motor vehicle death rates created by computing a ration of deaths to the consumption of gasoline in each of the states will be quite truly comparative, statistically speaking," the buerau's statement said.

"The gasoline consumption ratio reduces the motor vehicle deaths to a common denominator by which we may compare one state with another without incorporating errors of unknown quantities as may be done when comparisons are made on other bases. The vehicle that travels twice as far as another is naturally exposed to twice the hazard. This condition is esually true in all states."

The bureau points out further that the California vehicle is likely to be exposed to greater traffic hazard than cars driven in almost any other state since favorable weather conditions here permit the all-year use of motor vehicles.

Chicago Cubs Defeat Sox In City Series

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 3.—UP—The American league's vaunted pitching superiority was missing today as the Chicago Cubs, runners-up for the National league pennant defeated the Chicago White Sox, the seventh place American league entrant, 12 to 1, in the third game of the Chicago City series. The victory gave the Cubs a two game to one lead over their civic rivals.

Three White Sox pitchers, including Red Faber were unable to stop the Cubs sluggers. The Cubs made a total of 18 hits, including a homer, two triples and three doubles, with every man in the starting lineup making at least one safe hit.

Meanwhile Mud Teachout, a youthful left-hander from California who won his major league spurs late this season, let the Sox down with four singles. Except for the seventh inning when the Sox combined three singles for their only score, not an American leaguer got past second base.

Miss Wocker Wins Golf Play

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3.—UP—A strong finish enabled Miss Hermine Wocker of the Crystal Springs country club to win the northern California women's golf championship at the California Golf club today.

Miss Wocker defeated Miss Barbara Lee of the Claremont country club 2 and 1. They were all even in the 29th hole, Miss Wocker won the next two, the 32nd and 33rd were halved. Miss Lee took the 34th and Miss Wocker gained the title by winning the 35th.

OLYMPIC CITY PLANNED FOR BIG GAMES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 3.—Plans for the Olympic village for housing and feeding athletes during the games of the 10th Olympiad in 1932, are engaging the attention of the organizing committee, which is completing all of the details of this very big and important feature of the preparations for the coming world event.

The village plan was received enthusiastically and adopted at the recent Olympic congress in Berlin, although it was possible at that time for the organizing committee to present only a general idea of the plan. However, since their return to Los Angeles, representatives of the committee have given constant thought and attention to the village plan, and within four months all details regarding it will be made public. A pleasant surprise for all National Olympic committees is predicted when these details are announced.

The organizing committee believes that the health, comfort and peace of mind of the athletes and their immediate entourage are of principal importance in the success of the games. Correct training diet in each country's own cruisine is assured under the Olympic village plan. The committee is going to very great expense and effort in preparing the Olympic village plan, which it believes will be acepted by all countries as an ideal arrangement.

The committee is suggesting to all national Olympic committees that attaches be appointed to maintain a very close contact between the organizing committee and the visiting teams. These attaches will have offices in the Olympic village during the games and being familiar months in advance, with the personnel and details of operation of the organizing committee, will be of great service to the countries they represent.

RECORD-HERALD—ALWAYS FIRST WITH THE NEWS

BILL HAINES IN FILM PLAY AT FOX

The adventures of a carnival barker who becomes initiated into the mysteries of cowboy life bring in the laughs in William Haines' latest talking comedy, "Way Out West," which will open tomorrow at the Fox-California Theater with a cast which includes Leila Hyams, Polly Moran, Cliff Edwards, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., Vera Marsh, Charles Middleton and others.

The picture which was filmed on an Hopi Indian reservation near Gallup, New Mexico, resulted in a unique experience for members of the cast, namely that of working before the camera for several days in gauze masks.

The reason for this is that the plot called for the filming of a big scene during a windstorm, and as everyone who is familiar with this desert country knows, when the wind starts blowing here, sand flies through the air at the speed of bullets. Directions in the script required Haines and Miss Hyams to drive an auto out on the desert, step out and run against the wind. While actually before the camera, the players of course discarded the gauze, but the masks were resumed the instant Director Fred Niblo stopped the scene.

The fun in this scene is bound up with misunderstood intentions, for Haines is trying to get the injured heroine to a doctor while her friends, thinking he is trying to kidnap her, pepper the air close to his head with bullets.

The ridiculous antics of the "dude" cowboy aided and abetted by the equally comic Cliff Edwards and Polly Moran are said to make this picture one of Haines' funniest to date.

REALTORS TELL OF PLANNING FOR CITY

MARTINEZ, Oct. 3. — "City Planning" was the topic upon which E. Geoffrey Bangs, city planning expert, addressed the Contra Costa Realtors meeting at the Los Medanos hotel in Pittsburg last evening. Bangs explained the need of having a city properly planned and citing as an interesting point the fact that in the old days, children were able to play in the streets of the city because if a horse and buggy bore down upon them the horse seemed to have enough sense to avoid hitting the children. Not so in this day and age, he declared, for the automobile seems to have little sense and especially when sometimes a somewhae tipsy driver is sitting behind the wheel.

The coming state convention at Santa Cruz during the latter part of the month was also mentioned, and it was found that fifteen members from the county board planned to attend. D. D. Watson, Brentwood realtor, was suggested by the county board as state director, while George Putnam of Walnut Creek was elected official delegate to the convention from this county.

Otis Loveridge of Pittsburg and E. B. Bull of Richmond, both members of the county planning commission, spoke on the work of their commission.

Amendments Explained

Amendments 6 and 17 on the November ballot and the Mt. Diablo park were subjects upon which Senator W. P. Sharkey of Martinez spoke, asking support of these two amendments and also a negative vote on the "absent voter's" amendment.

County Assessor George Meese was also present at the meeting, and was called upon to talk. Meese spoke in favor of amendment 18 which has to do with changing motor vehicle registration. He said the National Automobile club had endorsed this amendment.

Short speeches were given by Deputy District Attorney James F. Hoey on the Mt. Diablo park and by C. H. Hayden and P. D. Butcher, also of Martinez, who were present.

New Highway Project

The proposed highway from Oakley west to the county line, having a 100-foot right of way, was discussed at length. E. H. Ward, Pittsburg bus line owner, told of progress on the project, and expressed belief that within a short time something will be done towards actual construction.

One of the last speakers of the evening was W. J. Buchanan, the chairman of the board of supervisors, who gave an interesting account of his observances as supervisor of the county, especially noting the growth of the county's assessed valuation from $19,000,000 a quarter of a century ago to the present valuation of $110,000,000.

Sheriff R. R. Veale and Mrs. Veale were guests of the realtors last evening, and the sheriff was called upon for a few remarks.

Mormons Laud Prohibition Act

SALT LAKE CITY, Oct. 3.—UP—Accomplishments of the Latter Day Saints church were reviewed in an address by Heber J. Grant, president of the church, before 10,000 Mormons at the opening session of the semi-annual conference in the Salt Lake City Tabernacle today.

The universal attitude toward the church, said President Grant, has undergone a marked change in recent years.

He said this changed attitude has been effected largely through the cooperation and broad-mindedness of the press. He claimed Mormons have a lower divorce rate per capita, a lower death rate and higher marriage and birth rates than any other group of people in the world.

The conference re-affirmed its stand for prohibition.

Young Flier At Kingman Stop

KINGMAN, Ariz., Oct. 3.—UP—Robert Buck, 16-year-old flier seeking the junior transcontinental record, landed his plane here today at 3:24 p. m. (P.S.T.)

Buck who appeared tired, decided to remain in Kingman overnight. He said he ran into heavy winds all the way from Holbrook, Ariz.

He will continue his flight to Los Angeles shortly after daylight Saturday, he said.

Although he failed to keep a record of his elapsed time, he "guessed" it was about 24 hours. He is confident he will break the record of Eddie Schneider, New Jersey flier, of 29 hours, 40 minutes.

FINAL CLEANUP OF CHICAGO SEEN

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—UP—Peace reign sat last on both banks of the Chicago River. No longer can editorial writers call Chicago "the crime capitol of the world." No more may dear old ladies throw up their hands in horror at the mere mention of "Chicago."

The city's gangsters are on the run.

A constant parade of underworld chieftains, the "Spikes," the "Toughies" the "Klondykes" and the many other picturesquely dubbed hoodlums, clattered into the courts and then into the jails.

Laying Low

Police arrest one and then another, raid this gangster's apartment, that one's hotel, catch them in restaurants, handcuff them on the streets. And the result:

No machine gun murders in months, no massacres, no bombings, no terrorism, no roadside tortures, no desperate gun battles while by-standers flee in terror. As Judge John H. Lyle put it:

"I think the people at last are so aroused that the gangster is through in this city.'

Had a judge said such a thing a year ago, his audience would have tapped significantly its respective head. And the gangsters, had they heard him, more than likely would have taken a pot shot or two at the judge, just to put him in his place.

Quiet Change

The dramatic transition of Chicago from a city overrun by racketeers, hoodlums and criminals who stopped at nothing in their rampages to a city as law abiding almost as any in the nation, has taken place only in the last few weeks. And so quietly has the change come about that few citizens have noticed it, with possible exception of the newspaper headline writers who suddenly have found themselves without basis for "scare heads" across the front pages.

For a decade the gangsters did just about as they pleased, shot and murdered policemen, even an assistant state's attorney, and got away with it. And then they killed last June a lowly newspaper reporter, Alfred J. Lingle, who worked for the Chicago Tribune. That was the beginning of the end of the underworld's sway.

Even though Lingle's reputation was found to be none too savory, the newspapers demanded and obtained complete reorganization of the police department. And then Jake Zuta, vice monger credited with having engineered the Lingle murder, was slain in Wisconsin. That helped renew the drive against the gangsters. The Chicago crime commission simultaneously issued a list of 26 "public enemies." Only one was in jail.

Judge Lyle thereupon issued vagrancy warrants against each of the public enemies. And acting Police Commissioner John H. "Hardboiled" Alcock ordered his men to bring them in or lose their jobs.

So the police have been hauling public enemies — snarling and whimpering, into Judge Lyle's court for the last several days. Almost a dozen already have been captured.

NEW MYSTERY FOUND BY SAVANTS

CHICAGO, Oct. 3.—An astronomical mystery as to why ultra-violet light from the sun failed to vary with the number of sun spots during the year from June, 1928, to June, 1929, was put before the members of the American Astronomical society, now in session here at the Adler Planetarium and Astronomical Museum.

Dr. Edison Pettit, Mt. Wilson Observatory astronomer, told of his researches on the variation of the sun's ultra-violet radiation since May, 1924. When three-month averages of the number of sun spots are plotted against the intensity of the ultra-violet during the past six years, they are found to agree very closely, except during the year mentioned, when the curves run counter. Dr. Pettit believes that there was nothing wrong with his instruments to produce this effect.

He found that in June, 1924, the ultra-violet radiation was less than during any month since then.

The ultra-violet rays from the sun are the ones that produce sunburn, are mainly concerned in taking photographs and produce certain other bodily effects, such as prevention of certain diseases.

War Stand Of Nation League Is Explained

GENEVA, Oct. 3.—UP—War-like sanctions constitute the best guarantee for the peace of the world, League of Nations circles admitted today after the 11th assembly had adopted a convention of financial assistance for an invaded nation, but had failed to harmonize two documents aimed to prevent war, the league covenant and the Kellogg pact.

Twenty-two of 27 European nations, in which the threat of future wars is considered most likely, signed the convention of financial assistance. Germany, Hungary, Italy, Switzerland and Luxembourg refused to sign.

Failure to harmonize the Kellog pact and the leage covenant left the covenant and its sanctions intact, providing combined action of "all for one and one for all," as Astride Briand characterized it.

Few Purchasers Of Cars Pay Cash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. —UP—Only 39 per cent of the buyers of passenger cars in the United States in 1929 paid cash for their purchases, according to a report filed with the census bureau by 425 automobile financing companies.

Installment plan purchases amounted to 61 per cent, the deferred payment on each car being about $444.30. The finance companies announced that in 1929 they financed sale of 3,478,373 cars of which 1,820,435 were new.

Last year out of every 1000 transactions financed by the companies it was reported that five persons absconded, attempting to avoid payment in this way.

Chinese Execute 2 White Women

LONDON, Oct. 3.—UP—The execution of two English woman missionaries by Chinese bandits was reported to the Church Missionary society today.

Miss Edith Nettleton of Halifax, Yorkshire and Miss Eleanor Jane Harrison, 63, of Cookley, Worchestershire, had been shot and killed by bandits who had held them captive since June 28.

The missionaries were captured by bandits aboard a steamer en route to Foochow from Chungan. Efforts of the British consul in Foodchow, officials of the Missionary Society and others to save them were futile.

Duce Declares Italy Doesn't Want New War

ROME, Oct. 3.—UP—Premier Mussolini declared today that Italy far from being a belligerant nation as intimated in certain quarters in Europe, had done and would continue to do everything possible to prevent the outbreak of war.

His declaration came in the course of an address to the first assembly of the national council of corporations in which the premier discussed Italy's economic, financial and labor problems.

"Our worst period is over," he declared. "If unforseen events such as war . . . and Italy has done and will do everything possible to avoid war . . . do not occur, then we already are leaving the night behind and are marching toward the dawn."

Three Killed In Train, Car Crash

FARMINGTON, Ill., Oct. 3.—An automobile, in which five young persons were returning home from a dance, crashed into a freight train at a grade crossing near here early today, killing three and seriously injuring the other two.

The dead were Blanche and Earl Kirkpatrick, 17, and 19, brother and sister, and Edna Flynn, 18, all of Canton. The injured were Richard Weiler, 18, and George Waggoner, 19.

Detroit Moves To Give Work To Unemployed

DETROIT, Oct. 3.—UP—While Detroit capitalists prepared for active cooperation in a politica-industrial alliance against unemployment, Mayor Frank Murphy moved tonight to fulfill the city government's part of the drive.

With the names of nearly 80,000 persons registered as unemployed the entire city has rallied to the support of the young mayor's program to prevent suffering this winter.

Such captalist as Edsel Ford, Walter P. Chrysler and the Fisher brothers have joined with the mayor in an effort to devise means of relieving the distress.

The industrialist were understood to have promised to help by distributing the work available at their plants so as to furnish the largest number of short time jobs. More than 25,000 new jobs will be made available if the program is carried out, it was estimated.

Election Data Will Be Mailed

MARTINEZ, Oct. 3.—Voters of this county will late next week receive booklets containing amendments and measures to be voted upon next month. A total of 32,000 booklets has been received by County Clerk J. H. Wells for distribution.

Ellis Slough Must Change Its Name!

The expanse of shallow water and mud flats running from the inner harbor toward Cuttting Boulevard is described on all the old maps as Ellis Slough.

Well, it was a "slough," but no longer. Today it is rapidly growing into a canal, or an extension of the inner harbor, or something more dignified and important than a "slough."

A cameraman recenly flew over this territory and took a picture from the air. The photograph reveals what many of us have not realized—that the dredging and filling program of the Santa Fe railroad and associated interests is rapidly transforming the old place into something altogether new and better. Richmondites should park their cars on Cutting boulevard and get a personal glimpse of this great work.

While this projeit is privately arranged, financed and executed, it is of as great importance to the city as any of the public development recently carried out and has the hearty endorsement of the city council and the Chamber of Commerce.

Richmond needed this new berthing space and the new industrial land which the project will create. The berthing space and the new acreage are doubly valuable because they are close in and because they tie in comfortably with the public and private development in the general vicinity of the new Ford plant and the Parr-Richmond terminal.

More than ever, this new project makes Richmond an industrial city.

THE WOMAN OF IT

By Marguerite Mooers Marshall

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Why Women Ought to Read the Newspapers

NEWS! News!! NEWS!!! News of transcendent interest to women, Especially to women who are sheltered wives and daughters and don't pay their own bills!

The item we are about to quote for their benefit

MARGUERITE MOOERS MARSHALL

Is a perfect demonstration of why women ought to read the newspapers,

For haven't they just printed the remarks of William Trufant Foster

About the absolute necessity of spending more money on luxuries?

Read what follows—then read aloud, con expressione, to your husband or your father.

Says Mr. Foster, who is director of the Pollak Foundation for Economic Research,

In an address before the annual convention of the American National Retail Jewelers' Association:

"Unnecessary thrift, particularly on the part of those with incomes sufficient to purchase luxuries,

"Is wasting over $10,000,000,000 invested in production equipment

"And is keeping millions of men idle

"Who are earnestly seeking employment.

"Nothing will stop the decline in commodity prices,

"Which have dropped no less than six per cent in the last three months.

"Except increased consumer buying.

"If people during the next two weeks

"Were to spend 5 more on the average than they have been spending

"The business depression would be over.

"Money must go back into circulation to finance consumption

"And a higher standard of living.

"Thrift under certain conditions is very wasteful.

"More than any other thing at this moment

"The country needs buying of so-called luxuries, including jewelry.

"Conditions will never improve if buying is confined to necessaries."

There, now, girls, don't say this column never did anything for you!

Could you be supplied, we ask, with a better cue

For urging him to buy the new dinner ring,

The new pearl necklace,

The new Chinese rug,

The new fur coat,

The new car—

Every new, lovely, unnecessary luxury which your feminine heart craves?

For here's the economist, Mr. Foster, explaining

That by treating yourself to such purchases

You will be helping to end unemployment and will be serving your country.

You will be a real girl scout, in short, with a good deed to your credit

Each time you get something you don't need but merely want—

And charge it up to Papa!

We shan't have to suggest to you more things to get.

For, being an American woman, you're not like Miss Malken Borring of Copenhagen, Denmark,

Who in a newspaper contest recently won a prize

Permitting her to spend all she wanted during one twenty-four-hour day,

And who, dispatches say, found extravagance a hard task.

It wouldn't worry any of us in the United States, would it?

So now remember that it's less than a hundred days to Christmas,

And take Mr. Foster's advice—

Just go ahead and ask Daddy

To promote prosperity by buying you diamonds—

Let's hope he won't come back, nastily,

"What with?"

VACATION'S END

The day draws to an end, when I must go
From all the summer's gladness, from the sport,
The freedom and the ease of the resort,
Back to the struggle that too well I know;
This is the last walk in the cottage-row,
The last hard battle on the tennis-court,
The last sight of the steamer leaving port
Into the sinking sun's sad, golden glow.
Hearing a low, last song from youthful friends,
My mind is driven to thoughts of all things last;
To a bell tolling, flags at the half-mast,
To words that those who part forever say,
To the last light of childhood—and this day
Becomes a symbol of all dreaded ends.

DIRECTIONS FOR FOOLING (?) A MAN

Lady, if you'd keep your man,
Be as simple as you can;
Never let him think that you
Feel he is not being true;
Never let him once find out
You know what it's all about.
Let him treat you as a child;
Be demure, and very mild
In your actions. Never show
Surplus interest, or he'll know
That you're worrying about him
That you evidently doubt him.
This would make him furious
And a trifle curious.
He'd start keeping track of you—
Then, my dear, what would you do?
Follow my advice and see
How much happier you'll be.
Play the engénue—at least,
See if you can fool the beast.
(If you can, without a blunder,
You will surely be a wonder!)

A DISH A DAY

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

With the coming of cooler weather thick soups come back into favor, and of necessity we turn to French cooks for inspiration. Italians contributed minestrone to the dinner tables of the world, Russia gave us borsch and our New England, in a burst of inspiration, created clam chowder, but for the most part delicious soups are of French origin.

KAREN HOLLIS

Strictly speaking, the French have no recipes for soup; like their salads, their soups just grow from the mood of the moment and whatever the housewife happens to have on hand. From the French, however, we have learned certain general rules of soup making, and we have adopted their favorite combinations and systematized them into definite recipes that any ingenue cook can follow.

There are innumerable tempting soups that can be made of vegetable puree and meat or chicken stock, but the one I am going to tell you about today is an all-vegetable soup. It can be made by combining canned tomato and canned pea soup in equal quantities and merely cooking the fresh vegetables which are added just before serving, but it is better if made of all fresh vegetables. This more laborious process demands three saucepans and about forty-five minutes' work, but I think you will find that the result is well worth it. This is an excellent soup to give children for luncheon.

PUREE MONGOLE

1 pint green peas (unshelled measure)
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon sugar
Dash of white pepper
1 tablespoon butter
3 large or 4 medium-sized tomatoes
1 carrot
1 white turnip
4 leeks

Shell the peas and cook them until very tender in butter, a small amount of boiling water, and seasoning. Put them through a puree sieve and measure. There should be two cups, but if there is a little less than that amount of liquid it can be made up by adding water in which other vegetables are cooked. Cut the tomatoes in very small pieces, add butter and seasoning, and cook until soft enough to put through a sieve. Slice carrot, turnip and leeks very thin and cook in boiling salted water until tender. This will take only a few minutes, so the cooking of the tomatoes and peas should be started first. Combine the tomato and green pea puree and add the sliced vegetables. If a thicker soup is desired, melt two tablespoons of butter, add two tablespoons of flour and stir the soup slowly.

New Household Accessories

TO ACCENT the color theme of the kitchen the sturdy bean pot that more often holds cookies than it is utilized for baking beans, now comes in black glazed wear. It is much the same form as the small squat jars with double handles and its bulging sides are high-lighted in black.

Every household should have a low table so that whatever member of the family is ill may dine in comfort. Small tables just large enough to hold a tray are done in enamels with clever painted designs amusing enough to entertain children. For adults such a table comes equipped with blotter and holders for match box and cigarets, a very convenient piece of furniture since it may be used upon many occasions and for various purposes while one is resting.

A new adjustable table and a portable sort is one that folds and packs in a case. This may be adjusted to the standard height for bridge or to short-legged height for the sick room. It is a table for the motorist to carry to beach and picnic grounds, and is colorful in various enamels, jade, ivory, silver, mandarin red, green, black.

Modernizing the Home

What Radio Cabinet Is "Best"?

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

May I come to you for help, mostly in arrangement, I think, of my apartment living room? But if you can suggest a few additional things that will make it more comfortable and prettier, please add that, too. If I can't get them all now I'd like to look forward to them as making the finished scheme and add them gradually.

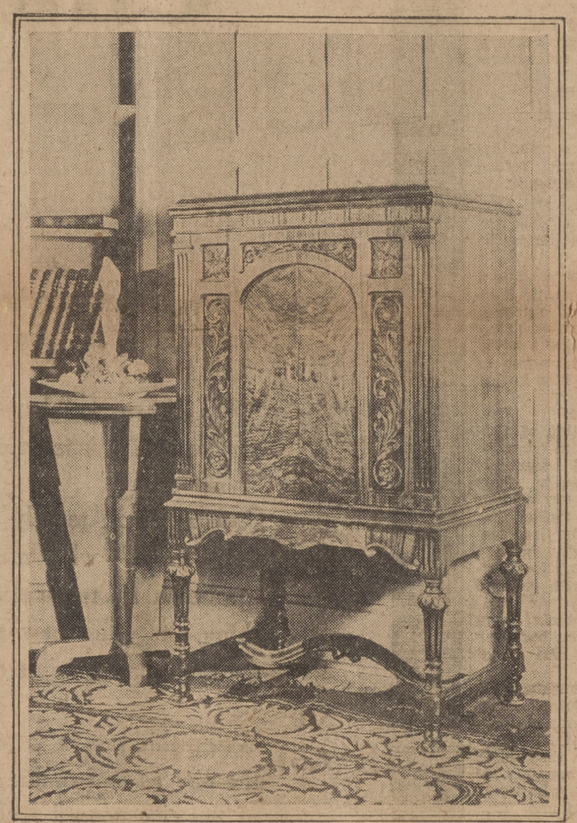
Could we continue to use our small rugs? They aren't Orientals but they are really good looking Anglo Persians in soft colors and a small pattern, rose and tan tones predominating. We like to take the rugs up and dance lots of times and a big rug makes so much moving.

I will list the important things. Walls a goldish parchment, rather rough; floor dark wood; English sofa without arms (green striped velvet covering); two stuffed chairs, one tan brocatelle, one tapestry, mostly rose; a secretary in walnut with claw feet and a small extension table with a stretcher bottom. I wish this table was a dropleaf now, but still it isn't bad. I have an old oak chair with a square back for the desk.

We are going to get a new radio that we can be proud of as a piece of furniture; the present one is an old-fashioned set, kept in the secretary top. What type cabinet do you think would be best for my room, a console or highboy type or a smaller table type? I saw a new model that is fitted into an octagonal table, and once I saw one that was like a little chest with four drawers. Do you approve of such types?

I would also like recommendations for curtains, both inside and outside drapes, and what about pictures? Two walls have side lights. We will certainly appreciate any help you can give us and will carry out your suggestions as nearly as we can.

(MRS.) A. C. B.



DIGNITY AND IMPORTANCE ARE SUGGESTED BY THIS CABINET IN WHICH AN ELECTRICALLY CONTROLLED RADIO AND PHONOGRAPH ARE COMBINED.

Improved Designs Permit Wide Choice

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

TUCKED away in Mrs. B's problem asking for help in arrangement and the selection of additional furnishings, is a question which gives us an opportunity to discuss a point that is of wide general interest. It is the sentence which asks: What radio cabinet will be "best"? A large question to decide for one or a group of readers. Yet today we are perhaps in better position to answer it both technically and artistically than ever before.

Since the advent of the radio and our first enthusiasm regarding it in any form whatsoever, radio engineers have had ample time to bring perfection to the modern cabinet and now are able to prescribe with some definiteness what is "best" from an acoustical standpoint. Decorators and artists have also done much to help manufacturers to realize the importance of cabinet designs that are in harmony with period and contemporary furnishings—and competition has done the rest. Today we may have our choice of radio cabinets patterned after such master craftsmen as Sheraton and Heppelwhite. There are highboy and lowboy and console types, stunning modern effects and designs having a Jacobean flavor, which makes them admirably suited to English rooms. All of which is but to say that one need not go very far in these days in the search for a cabinet that it as efficient from an acoustical angle as it is harmonious in decoration.

Decoratively speaking—in combination with the rather heavy furniture in Mrs. B's room, the radio cabinet should possess sufficient dignity and weight to be in keeping with the general scheme. The illustration shows a conservative and substantial type that should fit very well into such a room, and also prove good in size and proportion for the space allotted to it on the diagram.

But further than to suggest that in general the radio cabinet is most pleasing when it reflects the spirit of other furnishings in the room, it is hardly possible to go into making specific recommendations. Beauty is always tempting and, in home decoration, almost imperative. But if we are wise we do not choose our radio cabinet for its good looks alone. More important still is the tone quality of the instrument. And to a great extent this depends upon the construction rather than upon the design of the cabinet.

A famous radio engineer tells us that each and every cabinet design presents its own acoustical problem and that each such problem must be solved without regard to what has been done to other cabinet designs, if the highest tone quality is to be preserved. It would appear, then, that imparting the correct acoustic properties to a radio cabinet is not a thing to be done by a jack-of-all-trades or even a good cabinet maker. It must be done scientifically, by acoustic experts working in a laboratory equipped with instruments which will enable them to judge the effect on tone quality of different treatments.

As to the relative merits of the radio housed in an octagonal table and in a four-drawer chest, we are, of course, not able to speak. These pieces could be both convenient and decorative. The wisdom of their choice would rest upon the acoustic value of the respective cabinets and the merits of the instruments. Radio has gone a long way since the days of piece-meal and amateur equipment, and today there are many excellent sets on the market. Splendid tone quality may be found in the products of a number of manufacturers. Beauty in design is fast becoming the general rule instead of the exception. Ease of operation has been the aim of all designers. Prices can be found to fit almost any purse. ...Which leaves us just about in the position of the maker of our cabinet and the guarantee behind the instrument for our answer as to what radio cabinet is "best."

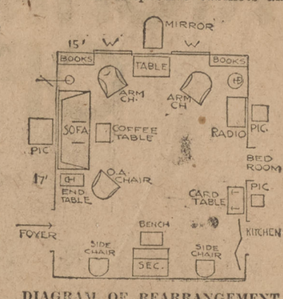


DIAGRAM OF REARRANGEMENT

In response to Mrs. B's request for a good arrangement of her furniture, we direct her attention to the scaled diagram which shows a convenient disposition of pieces. In outline her room is somewhat similar to that of Mr. McK., whose problem was solved in the Sept. 11th issue of The Evening World. The same use of built-in bookshelves at either side of the windows would work out to advantage here and help create a very homelike atmosphere for Mrs. B's room. (We seem to be recommending bookshelves with great frequency of late. But they are extremely decorative and economical pieces of furniture and justify repetition wherever possible.)

A Jacobean stool or a joint stool would make an interesting desk seat; the present side chair and another similar chair could then be used at either side of the desk. Over-curtains for the room might be of heavy neutral colored linen with a hand-blocked or printed pattern of the old English type repeating the greens and golds and rose tones found elsewhere in the room. A card table, coffee table and a screen would make nice additions to the furniture now in use, and a mirror and pictures in the positions noted on the diagram would add the finishing touch to what seems to us a very delightful and inviting room.

THE secret of cleaning a paint brush that has become stiff and hard with dried paint is not so much in the material that is used as in the way it is used. Usually a person attempting to clean a brush uses an old paint can more or less filled with dried paint, and mixing his paint softener according to directions subjects its action, as he fondly imagines, to the work of softening the brush. Whereas, in fact, the mixture is working to soften the paint on the can as well as in the brush and, not being powerful enough to do both, it softens neither.

If a brush is suspended in a clean tumbler containing a solution of one part of crystallized sodium carbonate (sal-soda) in three of water, in such a manner that it hangs several inches from the bottom of the container, the softening operation can be carried on entirely upon the brush. If allowed to work in a temperature of 170 degrees for twelve to thirty-six hours the dried paint will usually be softened so much that it can be easily washed out with soap and water. Brushes which have become as hard as stone can be restored by this process.

Sal-soda or washing soda can be obtained at the grocers, and the proper soap for washing brushes is to be had there also. Borax soap may be used, as well as carbolic soap. The soap must be washed out of the brush before drying, otherwise it will dry stiff and unpliable.

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

SMALL GAINS SHOWN BY STOCKS

NEW YORK, Oct. 3. —UP— Stocks advanced one to four points today and then lost part of the gain near the close.

Some irregularity was noted at the opening. Then prices moved up until around noon when selling reduced gains. The recession was only momentary and the list continued its gain in a slow, almost featureless session.

There were several weak spots. Montgomery Ward dropped to a new low for the present stock on belated selling following its report for September showing a decline of 18 per cent in sales as compared with September, 1929. Southern railway broke to a new low since 1925 on fears over the dividend stability.

During the early trading the market was helped by the decline of $159,000,000 in the federal reserve board's brokerage loan statement issued after the close yesterday. President Hoover's optimistic speech also had a good effect.

The oil shares were helped by success in the proration plans in Oklahoma with Phillips Petroleum joining the group agreeing to the code of marketing ethics.

Utilities made a good showing, as did special issues. Rails were mixed, coppers about steady.

Bulgarian King To Claim Bride

ROME, Oct. 3. —UP— The engagement of Princess Giovanna to King Boris of Bulgaria was officially announced tonight.

The announcement confirmed persistent reports of the betrothal of the princess, third daughter of the King and Queen of Italy, and the young King of Bulgaria.

Religious obstacles had delayed previous efforts to arrange the union, but it was indicated tonight these barriers had been overcome.

The princess, dark eyed and black haired, with typical Latin beauty, will be 23 years old Nov. 13. Her fiance, with whom her name has been linked frequently, is known as the "bachelor king" of Europe. He is 36.

New Confession In Lingle Death

CHICAGO, Oct. 3. —UP— The Chicago Tribune said tonight that Frank Bell prisoner in the county jail has told the story of the murder of Alfred J. Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Bell confessed his part in the slaying, the Tribune continued, and implicated Richard M. Sullivan, Chicago, Joe Traum, northern Indiana gang leader and an unnamed blonde young man "who actually fired the shot that killed Lingle."

The latter, said the Tribune, has not been arrested as far as can be learned. Sullivan now is in jail with Bell with Traum is serving a term in Levinworth.

Oregon Wins Over Drake

SOLDIERS FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 3.—UP—University of Oregon defeated Drake's powerful football eleven here tonight 14 to 7, through a driving attack in the fourth quarter that scored the deciding touchdown.

Oregon opened the second half with a display of "power" football and marched to Drake's 15-yard line before losing the ball. Then after King punted out to his own 32 yard line, Watts, Oregon half, cut around right end and slashed through the Drake backfie'd for a touchdown. Kitzmiller kicked goal to tie the score at 7 all.

In the final quarter Oregon started a new drive from mid-field. Kitzmiller led the attack with a 11 yard run, then passed to Rushlow for a 30 yard gain, and after being held to seven yards in two attempts at the line smashed thru left tackle for a touchdown. He converted.

HOMELESS REDS WILL BE AIDED

PARIS, Oct. 3.—UP—Improvement of the hard lot of thousands of citizens without a country or the vestige of civil rights— the Russian emigres scattered through out Europe—is gradually being wrought in France and elsewhere by a remarkable organization known as the National Committee and the Union of Zemstvos.

Serving as a veritable embassy of a nation-less citizenry, this hybrid society has for its mainspring in France M. Basil Malakoff, one-time Russian ambassador to Paris, and the present legal and diplomatic god-father of a gigantic brood of expatriates now within the confines of the French nation. He has for some time made his chief concern in life the precarious and complex existence of his compatriots. Unquestionably, he has aided them powerfully in their uphill fight for official recognition, legal status, travel, work, marriage and the mainfold exercises of civil rights.

Buffeted for years by every imaginable crinkle arising from an uprooted life, the refugees from all the Russias have hailed with pathetic relief the steps recently taken in their behalf by the League of Nations. An intergovernmental conference gathered at Geneva in the latter part of June, 1928, "to study the different questions touching on the juridic status of the refugees and to propose measures designed to improve the regime applied to them." This conference drew up two arrangements, signed by the delegates of ten powers. The first treated the status of the Russian and Armenian refuges, the other suggested the extension of more favorable legislation to include still other categories of refugees.

The accord was signed with certain conditions by France and Belgium, actually quite lenient in their treatment of exiles, and was submitted to the League of Nations. This body, on September 21 and 22, 1928, adopted a certain number of resolutions aiming at the application of the arrangements of the intergovernmental accord.

Already the legal life of the Russian in France has been simplified by these steps. Notably, he may find employment without the usual restrictions imposed upon foreigners; various tribunals and administrative bodies have been carefully instructed in dealing with the presentation by the refugees of legal and civil documents, which heretofore had been somewhat summarily ignored; and measures of expulsion or other means of separating families have been avoided or suspended.

The National Russian Union has branches in Germany, England, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, and Turkey; and it has representatives in Belgium, Finland, Greece, Switzerland, and the United States.

J. R. CLARKE IS ENVOY TO MEXICO

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3. —UP— President Hoover today appointed Reuben Clark, of Salt Lake City, Utah, close friend of Dwight W. Morrow and former undersecretary of state, to fill the important post of ambassador to Mexico.

The 57-year-old international lawyer will return to the post where he served for more than 15 months in an unofficial capacity as the advisor and right hand man to Morrow, who relinquished the ambassadorship to seek election to the senate from New Jersey.

The new ambassador, in filling a diplomatic post which the administration regards as one of the most important in the foreign service, may draw on a quarter century's intermittent experience in diplomacy. Coming to the state department in 1906 as solicitor, after five years of teaching and practicing law, Clark served in that office until 1913.

During the next four years Clark represented the United States on various commissions, including the appointment to prepare for the third Hague conference. When the United States entered the world war in 1917, Clark left the diplomatic field to serve in the office of the judge advocate general.

In 1921 he was appointed by former Secretary of State Hughes as an expert advisor to the American delegation at the Washington arms limitation conference.

After the conference Clark was not actively associated with public affairs until 1928, when former president Coolidge chose him as undersecretary of state. He remained in that post a year.

Meanwhile, Ambassador Morrow, busily engaged in straightening the international tangle over oil and public lands which resulted from the Mexican nationalization program, called on Clark to help him. While in Mexico City, Clark was not on the government payroll and it is generally understood that Morrow personally paid his assistant.

During the inauguration of Mexico's president, Ortiz Rubio, last winter, when Morrow was serving as a delegate to the London naval conference, President Hoover appointed Clark as special ambassador.

Clark was born in Grantsville, Utah, September 1871. He received the degree of bachelor of science from Utah University in 1898 and that of bachelor of laws from Columbia in 1906. He is married and has four children, is a Republican, and a member of the Phi Delta Phi fraternity.

Rail Worker Saves 12 Men

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3.—UP—The courage of a railroad worker pitched from a high scaffold with seven others to the tracks below today saved their lives when he flagged a fast train bearing down upon the crippled and unconscious men.

The men were employed on a Santa Fe viaduct over the Missouri Pacific and Chicago and Alton tracks east of here.

Twelve men were on the scaffold when without warning it gave way, dropping them 25 feet below. Five saved themselves from possible death or serious injuries by clinging to ropes.

All excepting Chester Ballard were knocked unconscious by the fall. Realizing that a fast train was due any minute Ballard stumbled down the tracks, hysterically crying and waving his shirt and cap.

In the meantime signal tower men who had witnessed the accident had "set" the block switch against the approaching train and others. The engineer brought his train to a stop six feet from where the crippled men lay.

All were rushed to Kansas City hospitals where it was found the injuries to one man, Roy M. Barefield of Lisman, Ala., were serious and may result in his death.

Three Arrested In Dry Raids

Headed by Clyde Laird, the Contra Costa county dry squad swooped down upon Richmond and El Cerrito last night and arrested three men for alleged liquor selling.

Peter Ostergarrd was arrested in El Cerrito, and removed with Braile and Solich to Martinez, where the three were turned over to the sheriff.

Caruso died enroute to a Monterey hospital. Apparently an aileron control froze, causing the crash. The glider was completely demolished.

Old Skeleton Of Indian Found

BINGHAMPTON, N. Y., Oct. 3.—UP-Archaeologists from the Rochester Museum of Arts and Science have begun extensive excavations on the farm of Roger P. Clark at Willow Point, near here, following the discovery of a 1400-year old skeleton, believed to be that of an Indian of the third Algonkian period.

In addition to the skeleton, a large pot with impressed designs and fragments of other crockery were unearthed, leading to the belief that further excavation might reveal relics ranking with the most important archaeological finds in the state.

Boxer Killed In Prize Fight

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Oct. 3.—Leonard Vanderwalle, 17-year-old East Moline, Ill., boxer, was in custody today pending a coroner's inquest in the death of Battling Nelson, prominent Waterloo, Ia., welterweight.

Jewish Holiday Delays Graft Investigation

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.—UP—Tammany leaders ordered by Mayor J. J. Walker to waive immunity and testify in the graft inquiry or lose their jobs with the City Hall still had a few hours of grace today because the original ultimatum expired on Yom Kippur, Jewish holiday.

At 4 p. m. Thursday, the mayor's dead-line, not one of those ordered to do so had communicated with Special Prosecutor Hiram C. Todd, in charge of the grand jury investigating the Ewald-Healy case.

Mayor Walker, asked for a statement regarding what appeared to be defiance, said he had extended the limit 24 hours "because of the Jewish holiday."

WELL MURDER IS LAID TO WOMAN

REDWOOD CITY, Oct. 3.—UP—Will Woodring, a ranch hand being tried here on a charge of murdering his former employer, Frank Roderick of La Honda, testified late today that Roderick's widow had confessed to him that she was responsible for the death claiming that she acted in self defense.

"One day after Roderick disappeared I went to La Honda and I was told that Mrs. Roderick, her attorney and her family were framing the disappearance of Roderick with the idea of hitching the blame on to me," Woodring testified. "I returned to the ranch I faced Mrs. Roderick.

"She told me the story of how she murdered Roderick. She swore me to secrecy and she said that he and she had engaged that morning in one of their many brawls; that he chased her from the house, and as they fled past the wood she grasped an ax, and when they came to the dairy she grabbed a 30-30 rifle which happened to be there.

"Then she said she opened fire on him as he ran toward her, and killed him."

Mrs. Roderick, co-defendant with Woodring in the trial, paid close attention to statements by the witness, but did not seem to be excited.

"She pleaded with me not to expose her," Woodring said, "and I promised I would never tell until she had first told the story. I never did tell until about three days before I was placed on trial, and I was convinced that she would see me hang as an innocent man, before she would step forward to save me. I then hinted to my lawyer about the whole business, but I did not tell him all. This is the first time I have told the story, and I am telling the truth so help me God."

Woodring denied he had a love affair with Mrs. Roderick.
